

Three Free Webinars

“Let’s Talk Nondriving and Low Vision Driving for Teens and People in Their Early 20s”

What: 2-hour webinars conducted by Dr. L. Penny Rosenblum*, American Foundation for the Blind, with Dr. Anne Corn joining for Q&A

Who Are the Webinars for and When Are They?

- Orientation and mobility instructors and teachers of students with visual impairments
 - April 13 from 4:00 PM – 6:00 PM EST
 - April 16 from 5:00 – 7:00 PM EST
- Teens, those in their Early 20s and family members – Tuesday, April 14 from 5:00 PM – 7:00 PM EST

How Do I Participate? Complete the online signup form.

Where Do I Go to Attend the Webinar and Get Handouts?

Approximately 2 days before your webinar, you’ll be sent an email with information on how to join the webinar using Zoom along with a handout.

If I Can’t Attend in Person, Can I Watch a Recording?

Dr. Rosenblum is working to make recordings available at a later time. Look for future announcements.

Can I Receive ACVREP continuing education?

Yes, you can receive 2 ACVREP CEUs for attending the full workshop.

Can I Receive a Certificate of Participation?

Yes, if you attend the full workshop you can receive a certificate.

Who Can I Contact for More Information?

Dr. L. Penny Rosenblum, prosenblum@afb.org or 202-469-6837

Dr. Rosenblum is the Director of Research at the American Foundation for the Blind and with Dr. Anne Corn co-authored the book Finding Wheels in 2000. A revision to the book is nearing completion. Both Drs. Rosenblum and Corn have low vision and have presented on this topic many times.

